WLC ENGINEERING, SURVEYING AND PLANNING ADDS NEW TALENT TO 60+ STAFF
Senior Engineer/Project Manager, Senior Project Manager, and Marketing & Proposal Specialist
Broaden WLC's Expertise

CASPER, Wyo., July 8, 2009 – WLC Engineering, Surveying and Planning, a Casper-based full-service civil and geotechnical engineering, surveying, materials testing, planning, grantwriting, and GIS firm, today announces it added Hal Hutchinson, Senior Engineer/Project Manager; Ric Brooks, Senior Project Manager; and Kerstin Johnson, Marketing & Proposal Specialist, to its existing staff of more than 60.

“Hal, Ric and Kerstin broaden our already highly-experienced staff,” said Don Davis, Corporate President and Surveying and Mapping Division Manager for WLC Engineering, Surveying and Planning. “We’re in a position to expand our staff’s qualifications and we’re excited about what these employees have to offer. We’re confident Hal, Ric and Kerstin will help the firm continue to grow and maintain its reputation of providing high-quality services.”

Mr. Hutchinson will be working out of WLC’s Gillette and Casper offices to serve the needs of the firm’s Northeastern and Central Wyo. clients. After serving 15 years as the City of Casper Engineer, he will lead and design projects for WLC clients as Senior Engineer/Project Manager. Mr. Hutchinson has more than 25 years of experience in the industry with areas of expertise including municipal engineering services, management of capital construction projects, and development projects. He is a licensed Professional Engineer in Wyo.

With more than 35 years of experience with cadastral and geodetic surveying on large mapping projects, Mr. Brooks will be serving as a Senior Project Manager out of WLC's Casper CY Avenue office. Currently, he is responsible for managing the Gateway West Project, a joint initiative between Idaho Power and Rocky Mountain Power to build, operate and maintain new transmission lines across southern Wyo. and southern Idaho. Mr. Brooks joins WLC after working for Petroleum Field Services, a Denver-based service provider to the energy industry. He also spent several years with Drexel, Barrell & Co. as a survey manager in the Boulder and Grand Junction, Colo. offices supervising crews and office staff producing subdivision plats, land survey plats, ALTA (American Land Title Association) surveys, GPS surveys for control and geodetic mapping projects as well as topographic and boundary surveys. He is a licensed Professional Land Surveyor in Colo. and Conn. and is currently undergoing the licensee process in Wyo.

Based in WLC's headquarters, Ms. Johnson is responsible for the firm's proposals and statement of qualifications as well as creating, executing and managing marketing initiatives. With more than four years of experience in the marketing and public relations industry, she is working with WLC's Marketing Director, Brad Miskimins, to identify the most strategic opportunities for the firm. Prior to joining WLC, Ms. Johnson served as a senior account executive for LinnellTaylor Marketing, a marketing firm based in Windsor, Colo.

Each of the new employees started in second quarter of 2009 and is actively working for WLC.
